Registration of Sex Offenders

Higher education institutions are required to notify all students of the site where registered sex offenders can be obtained. The website to access this information is www.iowasexoffender.com. Information can also be found by contacting the local police department or sheriff's office. This list identifies only those offenders "who have been assessed as "at-risk" to reoffend, and who were convicted of an offense requiring registration after July 1, 1995, and who were previously notified that electronic access would be part of their public notification."
